

Bob Roggio

His Business is Change

When Bob was in college, his father's sudden death forced him to drop out of school to support his family. For the next 30 years, Bob helped to create over 600 new jobs and provided employees with affordable healthcare and continuing education. He then went back to college to finish the job he started and earned his degree at age 56. Bob will bring that same brand of courage and perseverance to Washington.

Bob Roggio on Issues Important to Seniors

Bob Roggio believes that our country has a responsibility to protect and support senior citizens. He will fight for fair policies that focus on:

- Making Retirement Saving Easier: Bob will reduce taxes for seniors making under a threshold amount and protect worker pension plans.
- Making Healthcare Affordable: Bob will work to Lower drug costs by allowing the government to negotiate prices. He will fight for a universal healthcare plan to alleviate the cost burden on individuals and families.
- Making Medicare More Accessible: Bob will fight to make prescription plans easily understandable and transparent. He will work to improve the quality and efficiency of the Medicare system and focus on ensuring that seniors have complete control over their doctors.
- Protect Social Security Benefits: Bob will work to prevent the privatization of Social Security and will support Barack Obama's plan to increase the maximum amount of earnings covered to increase funding for the program.
